

2017-2018: Financial Aid Unusual Enrollment History

The U.S. Department of Education has established regulations to prevent fraud and abuse of the Federal Pell Grant and Federal Direct Loan programs by identifying students with unusual enrollment histories. Some students may have a legitimate reason for such an enrollment pattern; however, federal guidelines require institutional verification when unusual patterns of enrollment at multiple institutions are evident and must be resolved before students receive financial aid. Please provide the Temple College Financial Aid Office with the following information:
